

468-000-337 INCOME TO BE DEEMED TO MINOR PARENT: Income that is greater than 300 percent of the Federal Poverty Level is deemed. Only income of the grandparents is considered but to determine family size, any 18-year old or younger siblings of the minor parent are included, but the minor parent and the minor's child are not counted in the family size. To determine the amount of family income to be deemed to the minor and the minor's child, complete the following steps:

1. Take all gross earned income of the grandparent(s). If the grandparent is self-employed, allow disregards for self-employment (see 468 NAC 2-009.02A1a);
2. Add all unearned income of the minor's parent(s). Include all unearned income that is received by the parent(s) on behalf of the minor but retained by the parent(s), e.g., child support, RSDI, VA.
Note: Any unearned income that is received on behalf of other siblings is not counted.
3. Subtract any amounts actually paid by the parent(s) to people not living in the household who are claimed or could be claimed by the parent(s) as dependents for income tax;
4. Subtract payments of alimony or child support for individuals not living in the household;
5. Compare the result to 300 percent of the Federal Poverty Level; and
6. Deem any income in excess of 300 percent of the Federal Poverty Level as unearned income to the minor's ADC unit.
